The eighth in a series of statistical surveys conducted by the Modern Language Association, this 1965 study of 2,100 institutions of higher learning (junior and 4-year colleges as well as universities) presents, for the first time, enrollment data for all foreign languages. To provide background for the 1965 enrollment figures, data from previous surveys have been juxtaposed. The bulk of the report is composed of (1) 18 tables in which the survey data are summarized and (2) an extensive appendix that includes a directory of 1,933 institutions that reported enrollments in one or more foreign languages. Statistics collected in a 1964 sample survey and a 1965 report form comprise the two remaining appendixes. (AF)

FOREWORD

The present study of college language enrollments, eighth in a series that the Modern Language Association has conducted under contract with the United States Office of Education, is the first to present data for all foreign languages taught in the colleges and universities. The body of the report consists of eighteen tables, in which the data are summarized, and a directory of the 1933 institutions that reported enrollments in one or more foreign languages.

To provide background for the 1965 enrollment picture and to chart trends over a six-year period, enrollment data from 1960, 1961, and 1963 have been incorporated into the present report. The comparative figures are drawn from the following reports: "Modern Foreign Language Teaching in Junior Colleges, Fall 1959 and Fall 1960" (includes enrollment information for 455 junior colleges); "Modern Foreign Language Enrollments in (1206 four-year) Colleges and Universities, Fall 1960"; "Modern Foreign Language Teaching in (490) Junior Colleges, Fall 1961"; "Modern Foreign Language Enrollments in (1266 four-year) Colleges and Universities, Fall 1961"; and "Modern Foreign Language Enrollments in (1780) Institutions of Higher Education, Fall 1963".

It should be borne in mind, in consulting the comparative figures, that those for each year are derived from a different base, ranging from 1661 institutions in 1960 to 2100 in 1965.

The staff members who compiled this report acknowledge with gratitude the splendid cooperation of the registrars and other college officials who supplied the data upon which it is based.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE ENROLLMENTS IN INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER EDUCATION, FALL 1965

NATURE AND CONDUCT OF THE SURVEY

The basic data for this report were obtained from a card questionnaire sent to the 2207 institutions of higher education--junior colleges, four-year colleges, and universities--listed in the 1965 education directory published by the U.S. Office of Education. Replies were received from 2100 institutions. Questionnaire mailings and returns are summarized below:

Institutions Canvassed	Number of Replies	Percent of 2207	Number with FLs	Percent of 2100	Number with MFLs	Percent of 2100
2207	2100	95.1	1933	92.0	1880	89.5

In the last previous full-coverage survey, for fall 1963, 2180 institutions were canvassed and 2145 replies were received. Of these replies, 1780 (83%) reported enrollments in modern foreign languages. In the 1965 survey, 1880 institutions gave modern language enrollments, bringing the proportion of colleges with offerings in modern languages to nine out of ten. Fifty-three additional colleges reported enrollments in Classical languages only. When these are added to the modern language list, the number of schools offering foreign language rises to 1933, or 92% of the total who completed the questionnaire.

DISTRIBUTION OF ENROLLMENTS

In 1965 there were more than a million enrollments in foreign languages in the 1933 colleges and universities that supplied enrollment data for this survey. Five languages--French, German, Spanish, Italian, and Russian--accounted for 92.3 per cent of these enrollments, Latin and Greek accounted for an additional 5.5 per cent, and the remaining 2.2 per cent were distributed among some eighty additional languages, ancient and modern.

The Five Leading Modern Languages

Of the 952,496 enrollments in these five languages, 94.1 per cent are shared among French, Spanish, and German; 5.9 per cent are divided between Russian and Italian.

French is the most widely taught foreign language in colleges and universities. It is first in enrollments in 37 States and the District of Columbia, and is second in 12 additional States. Spanish, in second place, holds first rank in 11 States and second in 31 others. German leads in two States--North Dakota and Utah--and holds second place in eight.

French not only has retained its place at the top of the language enrollment column but has slightly increased its share of the total since 1960, from 38.4 per cent to 39 per cent in 1965. Spanish has grown slightly faster than French, but has done so at the expense of German and Russian. Its share of the enrollments grew from 30 per cent in 1960 to 32.6 in 1965. Italian, the third Romance language in the group, also registered a gain over the five-year period. (Another Romance language, Portuguese, enjoyed the highest rate of growth among all the languages covered in the survey.)

The following chart, based on the 952,000 enrollments in the five leading languages, shows the percentage of the total registered by each language from 1960 to 1965:

	1960	1961	1963	1965
French	38.4	38.8	38.6	39.0
German	24.6	24.2	23.4	22.5
Italian	1.9	1.9	2.2	2.4
Russian	5.1	5.0	4.3	3.5
Spanish	30.0	30.1	31.5	32.6

(For detailed analyses of enrollments and trends, see Tables 1-13.)

GRADUATE ENROLLMENTS IN MODERN LANGUAGES

Graduate enrollments in modern languages doubled between 1960 and 1965; undergraduate enrollments increased by 58 per cent. Among the languages, Spanish registered the largest increase in graduate enrollments with a gain of 166 per cent. French was second with an increase of 116 per cent and German followed, with a gain of 85 per cent.

The first chart below shows enrollments and trends at the graduate level in the leading modern languages, and the second chart compares the undergraduate and graduate shares of the total language enrollment. (See also Tables 15 and 16.)

FOREIGN LANGUAGE ENROLLMENTS IN JUNIOR COLLEGES

The junior colleges are daily looming larger in the foreign language picture. In 1960, 455 two-year colleges reported foreign language enrollments; by 1965 the number had grown to 570. In the same period their language enrollment doubled and their share of the total college enrollment in languages increased from one in twelve to one in nine.

Spanish is the leading language in the junior colleges, accounting for 42.7 per cent of their language enrollment in 1965; French was in second place, with 36.3 per cent of the total, and German was third, with 17.6 per cent.

Fifty-three junior colleges reported a total of 2,016 Latin enrollments in 1965. Greek enrollments were reported by 33 colleges.

Few two-year colleges offer instruction in the less commonly taught languages. About 900 enrollments in such languages were reported by 20 junior colleges in 1965--chiefly in Hebrew, Japanese, and Chinese.

Modern language enrollment trends in four-year colleges and junior colleges are compared in the chart below. (See also Tables 3 and 13.)

Year	Enrollment in 5 Leading MFLs			Percentage of Enrollment by Type of Institution

1965	952,496	848,811	103,685	89.1	10.9

LATIN AND GREEK ENROLLMENTS

This survey is the first conducted by the Modern Language Association that has gathered enrollment data for Latin and Greek, hence no figures are available to indicate enrollment trends. (Data gathered by the Classical Association of the Atlantic States and published in The Classical World have been collected from a sampling of the 370 colleges deemed to have the largest enrollments in Classical languages. Professor Samuel Lieberman of Queens College, who has worked with the surveys, estimates that the enrollments reported by the colleges included in the sample represent about 70 per cent of the total.)

Latin

Of the 2100 institutions that responded to the 1965 MLA questionnaire, 626 (30%) reported enrollments in Latin. The total includes 53 institutions that offer courses in Classical languages but not in modern languages. Undergraduate enrollments of 37,921 were reported and graduate enrollments of 1,667. One undergraduate enrollment out of eighteen was in a junior college. (See Table 18 for further analysis of the Latin data.)

Greek

Greek enrollments for 1965 were reported by 537 institutions, or 25.5 per cent of the 2,100 that responded to the questionnaire. The total enrollment of 19,531 may be broken down, following Professor Lieberman's classification, as follows: 13,276 undergraduate and 1,072 graduate enrollments were in Classical Greek. Of the undergraduate enrollments, 952 were in junior colleges. In addition, there were 5,183 enrollments in Biblical Greek (also reported as New Testament Greek or Koine). The junior colleges accounted for 271 of these enrollments. (Details of Greek enrollment are reported college by college in the Directory at the end of this report.)

ENROLLMENTS IN OTHER LANGUAGES

Other languages--defined for purposes of this report as all those except the five leading modern languages, Latin, and Greek--accounted for some 23,000 enrollments in 1965. These enrollments, representing about 2.2 per cent of the total college language enrollment, were distributed among some 80 languages, ancient and modern. The largest group was enrolled in Hebrew, taught in 150 colleges, which accounted for more than a third of the total. Chinese and Japanese each had more than 3,000 enrollments.

Portuguese, now offered in 90 colleges, has tripled its enrollment since 1960, thus registering the highest growth rate among all the languages covered by the survey.

One institution in seven offers instruction in one or more "other" languages. Several universities list enrollments in fifteen or more of the less widely taught languages. These include the Berkeley and Los Angeles campuses of the University of California and the University of Washington on the West Coast; the Universities of Chicago, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin in the Midwest; and Columbia, Cornell, Yale, and Pennsylvania in the East. (See Table 16 for complete listing.)

The following chart shows the languages that have registered enrollments of 100 or more in each reporting period since 1960, with total enrollments and enrollment trends. Swahili, with 130 enrollments in 1965, is the only additional language that accounted for more than 100 in 1965. (See also Tables 16 and 17.)

SAMPLE SURVEY FOR FALL 1964

In fall 1964, the Modern Language Association conducted a sample survey of college enrollments in the five major modern foreign languages and Latin. The results were published in a mimeographed report, "Foreign Language Enrollments in Institutions of Higher Education, Fall 1964." They are included in the present report as an appendix to the 1965 data.

A P P E N D I X

Foreign-Language Enrollments in Institutions of Higher Education, Fall, 1964

Compiled by James F. Dershem, Research Assistant

Coverage

This section summarizes the most important findings from a sample survey of foreign language enrollments in U.S. institutions of higher education for fall 1964. From the universe of 1,773 institutions that reported foreign language enrollments in the full survey conducted by the Modern Language Association for fall 1963, 398 institutions were chosen by random stratified sampling. The following chart shows the pattern of stratification and the percent of return achieved from each stratum.

Chart S-A

Stratum	MFL Enrollment in 1963	Size of Universe	Size of Sample	Percent of Return
1	1300 or more	130	130	94.6
2	700-1299	113	57	98.2
3	420- 699	241	62	98.4
4	240- 419	314	52	100.0
5	100- 239	385	49	98.0
6	1- 99	590	48	97.9
Totals:		1,773	398	97.2

Relative Error

Relative error at the 95% confidence level was calculated for thirteen items to show the value of the sample. The results of the check are shown below in Chart S-B. It will be noted that the relative error for the estimated Latin enrollment is high (11.6%). This is not surprising in view of the fact that the sample was drawn solely on the basis of modern foreign enrollment in 1963, no figures on Latin enrollment being available for that year. Several of the items for graduate data show high relative error: total enrollment, French and Spanish enrollments, and modern foreign language enrollment as a proportion of the total graduate enrollment.

Chart S-B

Level	Item	Relative Error
UNDERGRADUATE	Total Enrollment	5.6%
	Latin	11.6%
	MFL	1.8%
	French	2.0%
	German	3.4%
	Spanish	3.5%
GRADUATE	Total Enrollment	16.0%
	MFL	7.3%
	French	12.4%
	German	4.4%
	Spanish	9.6%
UNDERGRADUATE	MFL as % of Total Enrollment	5.8%
GRADUATE	MFL as % of Total Enrollment	15.9%

Enrollment Data

In the tables that follow, all figures for fall 1964 are estimates obtained by inflating the returns from the sample. The 1963 data, which are included for purposes of comparison, are quoted from Modern Foreign Language Enrollments in Institutions of Higher Education, Fall 1963, by James Marron et al., published by the MLA in November 1964.

THE MODERN LANGUAGE ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA

4 Washington Place, New York, N.Y. 10003 • Tel. (212) SPring 7-7100

SURVEY OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE COURSE REGISTRATIONS IN HIGHER EDUCATION INSTITUTIONS, FALL 1965

Conducted under NDEA Title VI contract with the U.S. Office of Education

TO THE REGISTRAR:

The Modern Language Association is continuing its series of studies on the status of foreign languages in the colleges and universities of the United States.

The published report on the results of this survey will include a directory with a record of enrollment in each foreign language taught, institution by institution. Language trends over the period 1961-65 will be charted.

We believe that the simplified form being used this year will make it possible for you to report your data with a minimum of time and effort.

Note that we are requesting course registration figures for all foreign languages, ancient as well as modern.

We deeply appreciate the splendid cooperation we have always received from the registrars in supplying the information that we request. We shall be grateful for your participation in the present national study.

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Separately for undergraduate and graduate levels, report Fall 1965 course registration for all foreign language courses that carry credit toward a bachelor's or higher degree. DO NOT REPORT registration in terminal-occupational curriculums or general studies programs, adult education courses, or courses taken at home by correspondence, radio, or TV.
2. Include all students who are taking the given courses FOR CREDIT, even though some of the students may not intend to take degrees. Such students may be enrolled on the main campus, on a branch campus, or an extension center, in day, evening, or Saturday classes. DO NOT COUNT AUDITORS.
3. If a student is enrolled in more than one language course, he should be included in the total course registration of each, whether the courses are in the same language or in different languages.
4. Please complete the form below and mail it as soon as possible. No postage is required. (Even if your institution has no foreign language registration in Fall 1965, please return the attached form with your signature.)
